

Contents

Acknowledgments, ix

Prolepsis. Twelve Telling Tales by African Women, 1
Chikwenye Okonjo Ogunyemi

Part 1. Reconfiguration: Rewriting the Script

1. Modernity, Gender, and Agency in Ama Ata Aidoo's Anowa, 17
Nana Wilson-Tagoe

2. Charting the Nation/Charting History: The Power of Language in Assia Djebar's Fantasia: An Algerian Cavalcade, 37
Nada Halloway

Part 2. Waves of Resistance: The Casualties of Difference

3. Nawal El Saadawi's Woman at Point Zero within the Context of Arab Feminist Discourse, 59
Amira Nowaira

4. Nadine Gordimer's Burger's Daughter:
Consciousness, Identity, and Autonomy, 74
Nobantu L. Rasebotsa

5. Dreams of (Dis)order: Competing Visions of Colonial Nigeria in Buchi Emecheta's The Joys of Motherhood, 94
Tuzylene Jita Allan
6. In the Pauses of the Historian's Narrative:
Yvonne Vera's Butterfly Burning, 113
V. M. (Sisi) Maqagi

Part 3. Regeneration: Labor Pains and Tentative Steps toward Independence

7. Mapping a Female Mind: Bessie Head's A Question of Power and the Unscrambling of Africa, 137
Chikwenye Okonjo Ogunyemi
8. A Drama of Power:
Aminata Sow Fall's The Beggars' Strike, 161
Chioma Opara
9. Aesthetics, Ethics, Desire, and Necessity in Mariama Bâ's So Long a Letter, 177
Modupe Olaogun
10. Reading Masculinities in a Feminist Text:
Tsitsi Dangarembga's Nervous Conditions, 199
Helen Nabasuta Mugambi
11. Sindiwe Magona: Writing, Remembering, Selfhood, and Community in Living, Loving, and Lying Awake at Night, 220
M. J. Daymond
12. Every Choice Is a Renunciation: Cultural Landmarks in Ken
Bugul's Riwan ou le chemin de sable, 245
Aissata Sidikou
- Coda. African Women's Writing, Prospectively, 266
Tuzylene Jita Allan