Wade Ellis (1909–1989), a mathematics professor, noted educator, and political activist, was the first African American to join the College of Arts and Sciences faculty after World War II. In 1967, he left Oberlin to accept an assistant dean position at the University of Michigan.

Courtesy of Oberlin College Archives